REDEEMER STUDENTS READING ABOVE GRADE LEVEL

All Kindergarten, 1st and 2nd grade students at Redeemer Episcopal Academy are reading above grade level thanks to the commitment of school faculty, parents, board of trustees and the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer Women.

From its inception, Redeemer Episcopal Academy placed reading as a top priority. The dedicated faculty, including a reading specialist, worked with all students with the goal of having each child reading above grade level.

The Episcopal Church Women (ECW) has played an important role in the school, specifically in the acquisition of quality reading materials. In April, they donated $1000 for the purchase of books for the school's growing library. The ECW has also supplied volunteers to help students with reading skills.

“We are fortunate at Redeemer Episcopal Academy to have supporters such as the ECW who have helped to provide quality and enjoyable reading material for our students,” said Dr. Trish Klein, headmaster. “We are also very fortunate to have qualified teachers who teach students to incorporate important reading skills into all their work and activities. This method ensures that children develop skills and dispositions that pave their way to success as real-world readers and as individuals who have a genuine love of reading.”

Both the PreK-3 and PreK-4 class are also reading. Early in the school year, the 1st and 2nd grade classes partnered with the school's youngest students to read books to them.

Reading above grade level is consistent with Episcopal schools' long tradition of rigorous academics delivered in a nurturing, faith-based environment that is welcoming of all faiths. Redeemer Episcopal Academy is currently accepting students, but space is limited.
